

Ward Jene Stroud Material List for Ready, Paint, Go! Workshop

Paper

Use what you know! bring what your used to or try something different for any project, drawing, or surface. I like 140lb Fabriano Artisico (Hotpress) for Brusho because it moves around it a little better but I use cold press and rough in all weights and measures. I actually recommend several types of paper for the best learning experience.

Paints

An assortment of Brusho. The 12 color set is great but any combo of colors will be super fun. I especially love the Grey and Black. Greens are nice too for foliage - Moss, and olive! I will have plenty for you to use. Iridescent paints are super fun and we will paint one or two projects with them. You don't have to and again I will have plenty if you want to try mine first before investing.

Tube paint - as with the paper... use what you know -and then try something new!

You will not need all of these but this is the palette that I use for all my paintings...

Yellow ochre

Quin. Gold

Burnt Sienna

French Ultra Marine Blue

Burnt umber

Naples yellow

Cerulean blue

Cobalt turquoise

Cobalt Blue

Janet's Violet Rose

Permanent Alizarin Crimson

Rose Madder Genuine

Cadmium Red

Phthalo Blue

Aureolin

Brushes

These are the brushes I use: I love a small, medium, and a large mop or round brush, and a small fine detail (rigger) brush. also, a small flat brush for cleaning up lines and I especially love to use Chinese lettering brushes in assorted sizes. Wonderful!

Other Supplies:

Masking Fluid in whatever flavor you prefer. I find the bottles with the fine tip applicator so easy to use.

Pencils - whatever you're used to, a softer lead is preferred, and erasers.

Sturdy Board - foam or gator board, particle board any non-porous surface, to tape or staple paper onto, and something to put under it to tilt it up - like a rolled up towel or equivalent.

Tape - Whatever kind of tape you use if you use tape to secure paper. Masking tape works great.

Drinking straw

Spray bottles, small and large.

Plastic tubs or whatever you use for water, and paper towels (viva has no pattern to transfer to your paper), and a couple of small kitchen sponges.

Cloth kitchen towels if you like to use them. I do :)

Bring whatever else makes you happy and that you feel is useful, lets share ideas!
